

Saugatuck Douglas

Drink Guide & Map

Saugatuck.
Douglas.
Fennville.

Home to a number of craft breweries, cideries, and wineries, Saugatuck/Douglas is a must-visit destination for adult beverage connoisseurs to raise a glass, make a toast, and quench your thirst.

There's an artistry involved in crafting the kind of flavorful beers, small-batch ciders, world-class wines, and artisan spirits that make this area a flourishing craft beverage scene.

And the very nature of what makes this area so appealing to visitors is also what makes it the perfect location for crafting distinctive drinks. Our unique terrain and climate yield optimal growing conditions for the regional crops essential to the flavor profiles of the beverages produced here.

Small Brewers Lead to Big Flavors

Celebrate the American craft beer culture with a visit to our craft breweries, where passion and creativity combine for spectacular results.

What is an American craft brewer? The Brewers Association defines it as small (has an annual production of 6 million barrels of beer or less) and independent (less than 25% of the brewery is owned or controlled by a beverage alcohol industry member that is a non-craft brewer.)

But ask any craft brewer, and they'll tell you the distinction means something even more. Craft breweries are known for using traditional ingredients but also pushing the boundaries to create unique flavor profiles. They also have greater control over their brewing processes and know that better ingredients yield better results. So, go ahead and grab a pint or two at each of our craft breweries and get ready to try some uncommonly flavorful beers.

Straight from the Source

An American Viticultural Area (AVA)

is a designated wine grape growing region in the United States that is distinguished by its geographic features. Wine connoisseurs have discovered that the Fennville AVA, part of Michigan's Fruit Belt region, is ideal for growing wine grapes. A longer growing season—thanks to the lake-effect climate—and sandy, neutral soil results in wines that are very fruit-forward in flavor.

The Fennville AVA, established in 1981, was the 3rd recognized AVA in the U.S. and the 1st in Michigan.

Featuring small-batch expertise and artistry, our local wineries produce award-winning wines from estate-grown and locally-harvested grapes that flourish here. Receiving increased national recognition for their quality, Southwest Michigan wines are among the best the state has to offer.

Experience All the Ways to Raise a Glass

Whether you prefer the fruit of the vine or lean more towards hops, we've got the craft beverage experience for you. Here you'll find opportunities to meet the makers, go behind the scenes for a tour, or learn how to make your own—while sampling the best flavors this region has to offer.

1 Events & Festivals

Whether it's a festive gathering to commemorate the first wine of the new vintage or to partake in traditional wassailing to bless the cider apple trees for a bountiful harvest, there is always an opportunity to sip, savor, and celebrate during every season in Saugatuck/Douglas. Other fun activities hosted by our breweries, cideries, and wineries include live musical performances, trivia nights, special winemaker's dinners, and food and beer pairing events.

2 Tours & Tastings

Sample an array of locally grown varietals direct from the source at one of our four wineries. Then explore the art of winemaking with a behind-the-scenes tour of one of our local vineyards. Learn from the experts in a group setting or arrange for your own private tour.

3 Classes

The Guardian Brewing Company offers monthly Beer School classes that explore the history and nuances behind various beer styles. Tastings are included with the price, and each course is taught by a Certified Cicerone (think sommelier for the beer world.)

4 Craft Your Own Beer

Saugatuck Brewing Company is the only brewery in Michigan to feature a Brew On Premise Program. They provide the recipes, natural ingredients, professional brewing equipment, and the expertise to guide you through every step of the process. Bring up to 5 friends and split your batch of brew.
